Michael A. Forman

Michael's Bio

A veteran of the United States Air Force, having served nine years as a Military Police Officer and Flight Chief, he has spent his career as a business owner, manager in the banking industry and an Intake Director with a Law Firm. With a passion for building relationships that enhance and promote business development, his passion is to share his expertise, through public speaking, motivating professional men and women to further their careers and personal development by making valuable connections.

Michael Forman is renowned for his exceptional communication skills and distinguished expertise in the realm of networking, and he is author of the book “Networking Unleashed” and have been published in many magazines, which he adeptly transforms into an engaging and financially rewarding experience.

He stands as a leading authority in the field and is highly sought after for his captivating presentations on the subject. Through his extensive repertoire of engagements, he has consistently contributed to the substantial enhancement of corporate profitability.

Beyond his professional accomplishments, Michael is a distinguished Veteran of Desert Storm, a testament to his commitment to service. While he finds great fulfillment in public speaking, his foremost devotion is to his wife and two sons, with whom he resides in Cumming, Georgia.
